

WORK OF Y. M. C. A. IN ILLINOIS CITIES

STATE ASSOCIATION IN SESSION AT DECATUR.

John H. Finley President—Universalist Convention at Chicago Votes For Changes in Creed—Illinois Presbyterians Condemn the Liquor System—Indiana Y. M. C. A. in Session

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 22.—Thursday afternoon the quarter-centennial state convention of the Illinois Young Men's Christian association opened in the First Presbyterian church with all the members of the state executive board in attendance, besides several hundred delegates.

The convention was organized permanently in the afternoon, when John H. Finley, president of Knox college at Galesburg, was chosen president. The other officers elected were: George B. Hemmenway of Springfield, A. W. Conklin of Decatur and N. V. Van Zant of Sterling, vice-president; C. B. Turner of Springfield, secretary and B. R. Barber of Northwestern university and J. C. Starkey of Mount Carmel, secretaries.

The report of the state executive committee, recommended the raising of $17,000 to carry on the work of the association on the lines of the last year. It was also recommended that in future the sessions of the state association be held biennially instead of annually. It is shown that there are now 111 local associations in Illinois, with active membership, and that there are forty-five railroad and city department associations.

CONDEMN LICENSE SYSTEM.

Strong Resolutions Passed by the Illinois Presbyterian Synod.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 22.—Thursday's session of the Illinois Presbyterian Synod closed a heated discussion over the temperance question. The following resolutions were adopted:

"Resolved, That this synod believes it to be one of the most urgent duties of the hour to combine and concentrate the effort, prayers and votes of all Christian people and all enemies of the saloon for the speedy destruction of the liquor traffic and the vicious license system which legalizes it and protects it."

"Resolved, That this synod disapproves and condemns the use of wines at the late Princeton banquet as an outrage. The synod repeats its declarations of sympathy and approval with the American Anti-Saloon League, Citizens' League and all other organizations and efforts that have for their object the overthrow of the great shame and crime of the legalized liquor traffic."

"Resolved, That the third Sabbath of November be observed as temperance day by recommendation of the general assembly."

Bloomington was chosen as the next place of meeting. The Woman's Missionary Society elected Mrs. Charles W. Robinson, Bloomington, president.

UNIVERSALISTS VOTE CHANGES.

Increase Representation and Alter Fellowship Requirements.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—The Universalist biennial convention of 1901 will have 452 available delegates on the basis of the present numerical strength of the church if the convention of 1899 ratifies the action of the convention. Only 200 are eligible to sit in the present convention and 132 have reported, although this is the largest national convention ever held by the church. The convention decided by a vote of 91 to 9 to broaden the basis of representation.

Another question which has vexed conventions for a quarter of a century was laid to rest by the convention. That was the requirement of belief in the old Winchester profession of faith, a condition of church fellowship. The Boston ministers' plan, which requires only belief in the cardinal principles of the creed, was adopted instead by a vote of 94 to 30.

Charles L. Hutchinson, Chicago, was chosen president. Boston was selected as the next place of meeting.

Friends at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 22.—The program that had been arranged for the quinquennial conference of the Friends' Church of America has been set aside and the delegates have decided to devote their whole time, or as much of it as may be needed, to the solving of a plan of reorganization of the church. The proposition is that there shall be a union of yearly meetings and that they shall at their next session confer on the general conference legislative power. The women delegates are not in favor of the proposed centralization of power in the church.

Indiana Y. M. C. A.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 22.—In the absence of Mrs. McCrea of Indianapolis, state president of the Young Women's Christian association, Miss Flora Shank of Indianapolis, state secretary, called the thirteenth annual state convention to order for the preliminary session of a three days' convention Thursday. The first hour of the convention was occupied by Miss Harriett Taylor, international city secretary, of Chicago. Mrs. Reynolds of London, world's secretary, is here, and will speak on association work in Europe.

Baptists Review Their Work.

Taylorville, Ill., Oct. 22.—The fifty-fourth annual meeting of the Baptist General Association of Illinois will be held in Jacksonville next year. From the report of the committee on the state of religion it develops that there are 1,011 Baptist churches in the state, with a membership of nearly 111,000, and that there was a slight falling off in the number of baptisms last year. The treasurer's annual report shows receipts of $10,647 and expenditures of $4,000 less the indebtedness of the association, being $2,400.

Synod Elects Its Leaders.

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 22.—The business session of the Olive Branch Synod of the Lutheran church began Thursday, with nearly all the delegates present. Rev. Conrad Huber of this city, the president, submitted his annual report, which showed that peace and harmony have prevailed, and the ministerial ranks have not been broken by death. John Ohr of Indianapolis, treasurer, submitted his annual report, which showed a highly satisfactory financial condition, there being almost $2,000 on hand. Rev. C. Huber, Richmond, was chosen president.

Christian Church for Temperance.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 22.—The national conference of the Christian Church decided to hold its next meeting in Chattanooga, Tenn. In the resolution adopted the liquor traffic is declared to be the "deadliest evil that affects our people, and that intemperance is one of the most serious obstacles to the evangelization of the world."

Synod Is in Session.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Nearly 100 ministers representing the Northern Illinois synod of the Lutheran church are attending the forty-seventh annual convention of the synod at Grace Lutheran church, Belden avenue and Larabee street. The synod will remain in session until Monday.

President Gates Re-Elected.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 22.—The nomination committee of the American Missionary association effectually disposed of the story that President Gates was to be retired by renominating him for a sixth term. All of the present officers were renominated, with one minor exception.

Nashville, Ill., Oct. 22.—The fortieth annual session of the United Presbyterian synod of southern Illinois convened at Coulterville. Nine Presbyteries were represented, and about 100 ministers were present.

MUST REMOVE DAMS.

Illinois Valley People Act—Suits Threatened Against the Sanitary District.

Beardstown, Ill., Oct. 22.—Unless the government dams at Kampsville and LaGrange are removed the sanitary district of Chicago will face hundreds of damage suits when the big drainage canal is opened. This opinion was openly and emphatically expressed by scores of men who own large farms on the Illinois bottoms and who were here attending the convention of the Illinois River Valley association. The people of the lower Illinois valley are afraid that the flood of water which Chicago will send down the river will overflow land which already is overflowed on the slightest provocation.

The claim is made by the lower valley people that the government dams are a great mistake, that they hold back the early spring floods until it is too late to plant a crop, and that this has resulted in the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars since the dams were built. The fear now is expressed that unless the dams are taken away and an open channel made the 300,000 cubic feet of water a minute which Chicago under the law must send down the river will increase the overflows and thus do additional damage.

ARE SEEKING BAIL FOR A. L. LUTGERT

SAUSAGE MAKER'S FRIENDS ARE ACTIVE.

There Has Been a Conference Between The Attorneys For the State and The Defense, But no Arrangement Has Been Perfect—New Trial In Two Weeks

Chicago, Oct. 22.—[Special]—At two o'clock this afternoon arrangements had not yet been made for bailing out Luetgert. In two weeks Luetgert will again face a jury of twelve men and answer to the charge of murdering his wife. Charles S. Deenen, state's attorney, gave this statement out yesterday afternoon. The same evidence will be presented to prove the defendant's guilt.

An effort to get Luetgert out on bail will be made by his attorneys today. A conference was agreed upon by Mr. Vincent, Mr. Phalen and Mr. Deenen, and the court for this purpose. The general opinion about the Criminal court building was that Judge Tuthill would not grant an application for the release of the prisoner under any conditions.

Last night in the presence of his attorneys Luetgert made a sworn statement to a representative of the Associated Press, in which he denied his guilt.

The jurors signed the following statement: "We wish to state that while the evidence was such that we were unable to agree upon a verdict, one thing we did agree about, and that is, that the circumstances were such that the people had ample reason to prosecute on the showing without hearing the defense, and we commend them for having done their duty in this case."

ADMIT FAMILY CLUBS.

Women Take Radical Action—Revise Their Constitution.

Jacksonville, Ill., Oct. 22.—The State Federation of Women's clubs Thursday heard minute reports of the different clubs throughout the state.

The committee on revision of constitution declared that hereafter the federation should have nothing to do with men, but that excited a spirited discussion and strong pleas for the sterner sex. Finally it was decided by a narrow vote that the clubs of both men and women might be admitted.

A sharp discussion was had on the time of holding office, some wanting to limit it to one term and others to two, but finally a motion to hold offices in the board for four years' successive tenure prevailed.

The nominating committee then offered its report, and as it is equivalent to election the following may doubtless be considered officers for the state federation for the coming year: President, Mrs. Alice Bradford Wiles, Chicago; first vice-president at large, Mrs. Anna L. Parker, Quincy; recording secretary, Mrs. Fred LeRoy, Streator; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Virginia B. Bash, Peoria; treasurer, Mrs. Sarah Maria Fairbank, Jacksonville.

Great Storm on the Coast.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 22.—A northeast gale, accompanied by terrific rain, swept the New England coast all day Thursday. No vessels of any description put out to sea, not even the large steamers plying between Wood's Holl and Nantucket Island venturing to make their trips. The schooner Nellie Lamper went ashore below Chatham and the crew had a terrible experience and narrow escape from death.

Refuse to Accept the Scale.

Spring Valley, Ill., Oct. 22.—The miners held a mass meeting here and completely ignored the 57½-cent gross weight scale offered by General Manager S. M. Dalzell of the Spring Valley Coal Company. Will Appeal to Washington—Formal Answer to the Note Delivered by Gen. Woodford to be Made—United States Silver Commissioners Will Appeal to France.

Madrid, Oct. 22.—The queen regent presided over the cabinet council Thursday. Senor Gullon, the minister of foreign affairs, explained at length the present status of Spain's diplomatic relations with the United States, and declared the cabinet was entirely in accord as to the policy to be pursued.

At the meeting of the cabinet today the ministers will consider the draft of the answer of Spain to the note of the United States on the subject of Cuba delivered to the Spanish government by the United States minister, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, shortly after his arrival here. It is understood that the reply will contain a formal protest against filibustering.

WOLCOTT'S MISSION.

Further Appeal to France Not Likely to Change Matters.

London, Oct. 22.—Col. John Hay, the United States ambassador, and the officials of the British foreign office decline to furnish the press with the text of Great Britain's reply to the suggestions of the United States monetary commissioners, though the foreign office people say it is in substance identical with the Associated Press dispatches. The United States commissioners recognize that their mission has been unsuccessful, though they will not admit it, as the answer of Great Britain says that country will be glad to receive other propositions, and the commissioners have decided, as a matter of form, to return to France and consult the French government as to whether fresh proposals are desirable. But it is not expected that anything will result from their visit to France.

Anniversary of Trafalgar.

London, Oct. 22.—The anniversary of the battle of Trafalgar was observed by the decoration under the auspices of the Navy League of the Nelson column in Trafalgar square. Hundreds of floral offerings were piled about the shaft, which was enveloped with union jacks. Trial of Hedley Delayed.

Carlisle, Ill., Oct. 22.—The omission of the letter "S" in the indictment charging Fenwick Y. Hedley with the manslaughter of John R. Richards, mayor of Danek Hill, has caused postponement to the January term of court of the trial. The discovery was made that in drawing up the papers Captain Hedley was charged with killing John R. Richard instead of John R. Richards. Judge Creighton thereupon ordered that the indictment be quashed.

Gen. Weyler Makes Denial.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Senor de Lome, the Spanish minister, has received the following cablegram from General Weyler: "Please deny the report that has been published that I have refused to surrender my command, and that General Castellanos refuses to consider as pacified the four western provinces. "Mr. Sage's representatives announced that he had received subscriptions for over $75,000,000 within two hours of his announcement. It was announced that he would continue to receive subscriptions until his plan was subscribed at least three times over, as in the bond transaction. Oconomowoc, Oct. 22.—[Special]—Information was received here today that a decision was handed down in the supreme court today in the case of John Schaffel, ex-rel. vs State of Wisconsin. The case was one in which, among other things, the legal existence of court was questioned. Attorney Merton, of Waukesha, attacked the jurisdiction of the western district court of Waukesha county. The main point of issue was the right of impeaching a jury from the entire county. It is claimed by the state that a jury must be drawn from the western district of the county. The supreme court virtually decided that all decisions of the local court were sustained and its constitutional existence affirmed.

BUY AMERICAN GRAIN.

European Countries, It Is Claimed, Will Need Heavy Importations.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Consul-General Hurst of Vienna has made a special report to the state department concerning the outlook for American grain in Austria-Hungary. He says the abnormal weather in June and July affected the crops and caused widespread loss, especially in Alfreid, the richest grain producing region.

The Vienna exchange has purchased grain from abroad to meet the fall demand. In September 1,334,005 bushels had been imported, chiefly from America, and American rye has already been purchased for delivery in Austria.

Varying reports have been heard from Russia, but the best authorities say there will be little surplus for export from Russia after the home demand is supplied.

It is believed, says the consul-general, that the abolition of the tariff on wheat in France would have a great effect on the prices of American wheat, and the agitation is watched with interest in Austria.

Several thousand natives perished at Tagloban. The cyclone also swept the island of Samar. The full extent of the catastrophe is not yet known.

PRAISE FOR THE PARIS DOLL

Jarbeau and Her Troupe Delighted the People of Beloit

Of "The Paris Doll" the "Belt It Free Press" says: "It was a splendid performance, all that was promised. The company was one of the largest that has ever visited Beloit. The music was bright and very good and the costumes were brilliant and rich and the scenic effects attractive. The duke's palace with the costumes worn in the set made an exceptionally charming picture. It was one of the finest and most extensive comic opera performances ever seen in Beloit and be it said to the credit of the company that from the star, Jarbeau, to the humblest of the pretty chorus girls, there was no shirking, because the audience was very small or that Wilson's Opera House is not McVicker's theatre, where the company were playing last week. Every one played as well as they could and that was well enough and those present were generous in their applause and enjoyed themselves very much. Only praise is heard for The Paris Doll."

TOOK POISON BUT LIVED

Lizzie Wheeler Swallowed Two Teaspoonfuls of Paris Green.

Miss Lizzie Wheeler a domestic employed on a farm between Orfordville and Brodhead, made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide by swallowing two teaspoonfuls of paris green. The prompt action of the attending physician saved her life. She claims that she did not know when she took the poison, but relatives claim that it was intentional and was occasioned by troubles in the family. The girl is an honest and hard working person, especially taking to outdoor work and does most farm work as well as any man. She likes horses and may be seen driving almost daily.

AUTUMN COSTUME FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

The best Paris models are always characterized by simplicity of style. The color and texture of the material are carefully considered, and the cut and fit minutely attended to, which is all the more necessary if the gown is a simple one. The model illustrated above, which is made by the Maison Beer in Paris, is of green serge. Directions for cutting the skirt, waist, and sleeves are given in the tissue paper patterns sold by Harper's Bazar, where this costume appears. The trimming, which is put in straight lines down the front of the waist and skirt and around the skirt, consists of a narrow fold of green velvet matching the serge, underlaid with white braid, which shows like an edging of silver. The lines of the trimming cross at the angles and form an interlaced pattern at the bottom of the front of the skirt and on the shoulders of the waist. The waist is a blouse with open fronts, showing a cross tucked vest of light silk of some becoming shade—primrose yellow, for instance. The sleeves fit snugly and are long, with slashes at the wrist to allow their spreading on the hand. At the top sufficient breadth and fullness are given by the triple epaulettes.

THE STAFF OF LIFE.

Bread is the staff of life. All right—if it's good Bread. A man can live and thrive on nothing but Bread—if it's good Bread. It is something that has to be studied to be done well. We make good Bread. Pies, Cakes, Cookies, and everything a bakery should make. We do nothing else. Day in and day out we do nothing but bake. Isn't it natural that we should do it better than some one who hasn't studied it, and made a business of it?

THE OVERFLOW OF LOCAL NEWS.

WITH THE YARDMASTER

WHEN I arrived here, I noticed that Janesville is situated. The fact is, most every town in the state is more or less situated. Janesville is far ahead of Rome as she is built on more than seven hills. Some of the sidewalks here are full of knot holes, but they are not wholly objectionable. Should a young man take his fair affiance out for a quiet stroll up the scenic hillside, should he conclude that he couldn't be here, and she couldn't be his, he can always find good ground to let her slide. I notice, the sun rises and sets in the city limits. I find the people here good natured, home-like and hospitable. They do not give a stranger the "frozen face," but rather extend the "glad hand." For this reason, I may remain in Janesville.

Mr. Felix Fax is a man who is wiser than a whole forest full of owls when it comes to writing poetry. His poetry is pathetic, touching, soul-stirring and sometimes emotional. The following lines are from his pen: "Oh milkmaid, with unmet feet, Permit me, dear, to call you sweet; Although your eyes are slightly crossed, Without your love my life is lost; Your hair hangs down your back in strings, But ah! my angel looks but when I see you; Your nose is freckled some, and tanned, But you're the jewel of the land; Your skirts are wet and dabbled with mud, But for your smile I'd shed my blood; Oh! you're the homeliest thing in sight, I love you, love with all my might; But what in thunder's wrong with me? I've got Truth mixed with Poetry."

I have traveled from December to Afton via Beloit. I have crossed the Brooklyn bridge on Saturdays; fought Indians in the wooly west and borrowed money from queens of tragedy, but I have never been in a town where so many dogs with no pride of ancestry collect around one corner as in Janesville. If it is the proper thing, and an up to date fad to own a dog, then I want to buy one. I do not want to be behind on anything that is all the rage. Yesterday I noticed 27 in one flock holding some kind of a conference, and not one of them looked alike. Some were sad-eyed, some were tramp dogs and some were just plain, late drum head stock. I bought a dog in Green Bay for 65 cents. At first I thought I could raise him. The first week he was arrested five times for being a nuisance. I left him there homeless and friendless. He may be dead, and he may be alive. In either case he is better off.

This morning I chanced to meet Hiram Jefferson, a man who has seen many summers fade reluctantly into winter. He was born and reared under the general rays of a Southern sun. I said to him: "Jeff do you feel quite at home in this cold country, after living so long in Kentucky?" "Well, sah, I reckon I don't en just ez soon ez I git some loose time loafin' 'roun on my hands. I'd gwine back to de ole sunny home, er my name hain't Jeff."

"I'll tell you Jeff, those old folks certainly did know how to cook down there."

"Day sho 'nuff did does, makes me kinder nervous even to think 'bout it."

"This is the season of the year, Jeff, when the possums begin to get fat. The persimmons are ripe. Let a colored man get out for a possum hunt on a moonlight night, and he will simply forget his age and—"

"Look harb boss I wish you all wouldn't talk so home like; kinder makes me feverish."

"But hold on Jeff, let me finish my story. Let me tell you how to cook a possum for a Christmas dinner. Get a fat one, and roll him in hot ashes until you get all the hair off, then put him on the roof of the corn crib or the smoke house and let him stay there all night so he will freeze. Next morning before the kin folks begin to arrive, you want to parboil him to get out the wild taste. Then put him in the oven and bake him brown, then—"

"Say boss, can't you tell dat story widout getting so personal? You's jist gitting disgraceful."

"Well now never mind about that. Wait until I finish. Then have your sweet potatoes ready to smother in the possum fat. At the same time have a pot of hogs jowl cooked with greens."

"Boss, yer can talk all yer please, 'bout dem good things to some udder nigger, I can't stand it. Liable ter git me a spell o' sickness."

Oh, well Jeff, I'm about through talking about this Christmas dinner. Just wait a minute. To make it all complete you must have some corn pones cooked with cracklings. They are to dip in the pot liquor where the jowl and greens were cooked. Then when the back bone and turnips are all ready to put on the table you just—

"Boss you's done gone said 'nuff. No use fussin' 'rout 'bout dem good things no longer. You's got my mouth waterin' shamefully. Hits er sin ter get so personal 'en er sinner can't no mo go to heaben dan er colored pussen can I see his taste for chicken? With this he walked away and I saw him no more."

PAY $2909.58 TO STATE

Rock County Receives Bill For Maintenance of 'Unfortunates.'

Rock county pays $2909.58 to the state for the maintenance of her unfortunates during the last year. County Clerk W. J. McIntyre has received the report from the secretary of the state.

Since the starting of the home for the feeble minded at Onippewa Falls this summer this county has had ten patients there at a cost of $254.85.

Since a year ago last Sept. 30, Rock county has supported eighteen boys at the state industrial school at Waukesha at a cost of 435 01.

To the state hospital for the insane at Mendota, the county since a year ago last Sept. 30 is credited with sending forty two patients at a cost of $2219.72.

The Search For Health.

It is not human nature to be contented with our lot in life. We are all striving to gain something we lack, but the hardest, and seemingly most hopeless, quest is the search for health by those who are either weak constitutionally or have become run down. The ordinary practitioner doesn't seem to solve the problem of a run-down physical condition. If the patient is wealthy he sends him on a voyage for his health; if poor, he gives him a "tonic," but the great wellspring of health remains untouched, and small benefit results.

There are remedies for such troubles—remedies potent, safe and permanent. Dr. Greene, famous as the discoverer of Nervin, has remedies for all diseases of the nerves, blood, and body. Consultation and advice of the most skilled physician can be had absolutely free of cost at the office of Dr. Greene's remedies, 148 State street, Chicago, Ill. Whether you call or write, consultation free. This certainly is a great privilege to those who have searched everywhere for health, and have given up hope. Dr. Greene's peerless success in discovering remedies for the ills of mankind have given him an enviable place in the hearts of our people. If you are ill, call or write at once.

A PECULIAR REMEDY.

Something About the New Discovery for Curing Dyspepsia.

The Rev. F. I. Bell, a highly esteemed minister residing in Weedsport, Cayuga Co., N. Y., in a recent letter writes as follows: "There has never been anything that I have taken that has relieved the Dyspepsia from which I suffered for ten years except the new remedy called Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Since taking them I have had no distress at all after eating and again after long years CAN SLEEP WELL. Rev. F. I. Bell Weedsport, N. Y., formerly Idalia, Colo. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is a remarkable remedy, not only because it is a certain cure for all forms of indigestion, but because it seems to act as thoroughly in old chronic cases of Dyspepsia as well as in mild attacks of indigestion or biliousness. A person has dyspepsia simply because the stomach is overworked, all it wants is a harmless, vegetable remedy to digest the food and thus give it the much needed rest. This is the secret of the success of this peculiar remedy. No matter how weak or how much disordered the digestion may be, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food whether the stomach works or not. New life and energy is given not only to the stomach but to every organ and nerve in the body. A trial of this splendid medicine will convince the most skeptical that Dyspepsia and all stomach troubles can be cured. The tablets are prepared by the Stuart Chemical Co., of Marshall, Mich., but so popular has the remedy become that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets can now be obtained at any drug store at 50 cents per package. Send for look on stomach diseases free.

About School Suits...

We ought to sell ALL of the School Suits that will be sold in Janesville this fall. . . .

But we won't. Some people are too proud to patronize us, and some are such poor judges of value that they would pay $1.89 for a suit that is all shoddy rather than to pay $2.00 to us for the same pattern in a suit that would wear and give satisfaction. These people's trade we won't get. We WILL get the trade of people who like to make sure of what they are buying, who are good judges, who don't want job lots, who are not too proud to save money when they can. We are better prepared than ever to serve such people, and we will sell them School Suits CHEAPER than ever before. Nearly THE WHOLE of our Main street store is devoted to Boys' Clothing, and our stock is TWICE as attractive as it has ever been before. THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1492—First meeting between Europeans and American aborigines on board Columbus' vessels.

1740—Sir Philip Francis, alleged author of the famous Junius letters, was born in Dublin; died 1818. Sir Philip was a member of the supreme council of Bengal, of which Warren Hastings was president. He opposed Hastings in his doubtful measures, fought a duel with him and was severely wounded. He entered parliament, was prominent in the trial of Hastings, supported Fox during the French crisis and favored the abolition of the slave trade. He was a writer of great ability and believed by Brougham and Macaulay to have been the author of the Junius letters. He denied the allegation. Brougham asserted that he did so in order to preserve "the tranquillity so invaluable in the decline of life."

1811—Franz Liszt, Hungarian musician, was born; died 1882.

1832—Leopold Damrosch, eminent musician, born in Posen, Prussia; died 1885.

1883—Captain Mayne Reid, the well known English novelist of adventure, died; born 1818.

1895—Signor Biondi, celebrated Italian author, scholar and statesman, died at Naples; born 1828.

A SILLY FALSE-HOOD.

The last performance of democratic papers in some of the free silver communities was the publication of a charge that the administration through Senator Hanna in some mysterious way had pledged the sale of the Union Pacific railroad to a syndicate of New York bankers last year, and obtained in exchange for that pledge large campaign contributions.

That this statement is absolutely false is so apparent that its effect has already been a boomerang. It has reacted upon its authors and upon their own party.

The reason of this is twofold: first, their statement has set people to looking up the matter, and they find that the sale of the road was ordered by a democratic administration, and that the present administration had nothing to do but merely to carry out the plans originated and practically completed by their democratic predecessors; second, that these plans only provided for a sale of the road to the highest bidder, hence there could be no favoritism. The precaution was taken to get an agreement from certain parties that a certain sum would be bid, in order to prevent its being knocked down at a very low price, but this agreement does not prevent others bidding, and it is now understood that other bids will be made.

It is thus apparent that the entire hullabaloo made by the democratic press on this subject is merely for effect upon voters in the coming election, knowing, of course, that a large share of the voters have not followed this question in detail, and that they would not know whether the statement was true or false.

The Beloit Free Press points out a funny thing about the Waukesha matters. Two democratic lawyers and the Milwaukee Journal started and conducted the bitter partisan prosecution against Superintendent Hart, and now, after his "conviction" is secured, the Milwaukee Journal has become Hart's defender, or at least, the maligner of those whose duty it was to inflict the punishment of removal originally so viciously demanded by the Journal.

President McKinley has no occasion to worry over the comments of the opposition on his having allowed it to become known that he favored the election of Gen. Tracy to be Major of New York. It would have been strange, indeed, if he did not favor Gen. Tracy, who is the only republican candidate. Ninety nine per cent of those who elected Major McKinley president join him in wishing for the election of Gen. Tracy.

The Seth Low campaign has been from the jump conducted on the rule of ruin principle, and every man who has participated in it should be put upon the list of those not to be hereafter honored by the republican party.

Being no longer able to deny present prosperity, the Jerry Simpson style of calamity howlers have taken to predicting a panic next year. They are like those who fail to enjoy health for fear that they are going to be sick.

The tone of a portion of the English press indicates the existence of the fear that the British government may at some time in the near future endorse international bimetallicism.

Senator Gorman, according to the Baltimore Sun, ought to be able to make a living as a professional humorist after the expiration of his present term in the senate.

A new comet has been discovered by a Lick Observatory man, but comets no longer excite the people as they once did; they have become too common.

A BIT OF INSPIRATION.

At the state teachers' convention held in Milwaukee in the early part of the year, Mrs. Harriet Dearborn Torrens of this city, read a paper on "Essentials in Teaching School Music." The entire address may be read and re-read with profit by all teachers in our public schools as it abounds in vigorous thought, clearly and forcefully exposed, but here is a gem that ought to have place at the head of the daily program of every teacher of children and youth:

"No one ever gets beyond his ideal in perfection of character or attainment. So let us make our ideals higher, our voices more musical, our faces bright and happy before our class, our attire neat and becoming, and try to have kindness and love accomplish our ends instead of severe means."

FRESH CELERY ALL WINTER

It May Be Had By Any Family Possessing A Good Cellar.

When celery is ready for winter it may be pitted, or placed in a cellar. In taking it from the ground be careful not to mutilate the roots as it about to transplant it. Indeed, it will grow all winter if properly cared for. Take all the earth the roots will hold.

The celery pit should have a supporting frame or roof shaped like a capital A, only less pointed. Make a trench six inches deep by eight inches wide, and set the celery in close, packing the roots in the earth. Moisten with water. As the nights grow colder, put over the roof and cover with earth or straw or both, leaving one or both ends of pit open for air. When excluded from the light, in such a pit, and with roots moist, celery grows rapidly, and that already grown blanches. The pit must not be too broad, however, or the celery will heat and rot.

Celery can be blanched in any cellar, having a care not to pack it in too broad rows; say three rows of plants to a row. Water the roots without wetting the plants. In this way, in a warm cellar, the plants will grow all winter.

Return of the Favorites.

The company bring back all the old and seven new faces, augmented band and special orchestra. Opening bill "Slaves of Money" with the people's favorite, J. Knox Gavin starring in the cast ably supported by a guaranteed and recognized company of seventeen acting people, singers, dancers and comedians. An entire change of program each evening. Popular prices. On Monday night ladies will be admitted free under the usual conditions.

BIRTHDAY OF POST FITTINGLY MARKED

SIXTEENTH ANNIVERSARY AT POST HALL

Appropriate Exercises in the Armory After Supper Had Been Served to 600 People—Remarks By Rev. H. W. Thompson, Rev. W. A. Hall And Others.

W. H. Sargent Post marked its sixteenth anniversary last night, and never has the Post shown warmer hospitality or better cheer. The ladies of the Post and of the Woman's Relief Corps served supper to six hundred people between 6 and 8 o'clock in Post hall, and the throng in the Armory for the anniversary exercises was proportionately large.

The exercises at the Armory opened with the singing of "Marching Through Georgia." There was prayer by Rev. H. W. Thompson, song by E. O. Kimberley, H. C. Buell and D. D. Bennett, and Commander C. D. Child introduced Rev. H. W. Thompson as the first speaker of the evening. Rev. Mr. Thompson said that people often wondered why old vets have such good times when they get together. They wouldn't wonder if they could look back on hardships, trials and dangers shared together. Some people don't understand the old soldiers. Grand Army men had been accused of loving to "play soldier." And yet they had worn the blue when it cost something to wear it and had marched under the flag when it really meant something.

Rev. W. A. Hall pictured the civil war as a struggle between two athletes. He pointed out that the one thing more than all else shows what the loyalty and patriotism of the soldiers really was—their great sacrifice. They gave up business, home, loved ones and life because they really loved their country.

Dr. J. B. Whiting aroused murmurs of dissent when he said that he realized that he was invited to speak not because any one expected him to or wanted him to make a speech, but because of a kindly wish to compliment him. The manifest appreciation with which Dr. Whiting was heard showed how unfounded was the suggestion. He made a ringing appeal for patriotic directness, and made plain that he could in no wise fellowship with the confederate grey and what it symbolized.

Past Commander S. C. Cobb made a few witty remarks which were greatly enjoyed.

The musical numbers were by no means the least enjoyable on the evening's program. There was a brilliantly rendered piano solo by Miss Marian Scott, well rendered selections by the male trio, and gramophone selections conducted by S. C. Burnham. Miss Imogene McDonald gave a sketch from David Copperfield. Mrs. O. H. Brand put feeling into Capt. Jack Crawford's story "The Veteran and His Grandson" and for an encore gave "Pontius Pilate." Little Estee Hardy won an encore for her rendition of "United Forever." The program ended with the singing of "America" and the floor was cleared for dancing.

NO FOREST PARK CAR AFTER TOMORROW

"SARATOGA TRUNK" TO BE TAKEN OFF.

It Has Lost Money From The First Days of The Line, and Blabon Does Not Feel Willing To Pay For Its Operation

Tomorrow night the Forest Park car will make its last trip for the present.

It has never paid expenses and Owner Blabon does not feel like paying for the fun of running it.

Superintendent Cummings received a long letter from Mr. Blabon today reviewing the figures. He pointed out that the car had never paid the cost of operation.

It ran at a loss in Superintendent Proudfoot's time, and the loss has continued ever since.

Each car is supposed to make $7 a day to pay running expenses. Receipts on the Forest Park line have been nearer $4 a day.

Mr. Blabon directs Superintendent Cummings, therefore, to stop running the Forest Park car. The car will run tomorrow but tomorrow night it will go into the barn to stay.

"When the weather gets bad and we think people will ride we probably will try it again for a day or two as an experiment," said Supt. Cummings to a Gazette reporter this afternoon, "but we cannot afford to run it at a loss."

"Doesn't your contract with the Forest Park Association call for regular trips?"

"No, that contract expired last May" was the response.

VERONA JARBEAU'S DEBTS

Box Office Receipts Attached By New Yorkers In Madison

The Verona Jarbeau Burlesque company got here at 10:30. Hagen & Albert of New York, claim the company is indebted to them in the sum of $1,000 for scenery. At the conclusion of last night's performance in Madison, the company, through its attorney, A. L. Sanborn, served an attachment on E. M. Fuller, owner of the opera house and F. W. Hoyt, treasurer, for the box office receipts. The scenery and baggage of the company were also attached.

The Madison trouble was settled satisfactorily, Manager Jacobs showing an agreement from the scene painters to extend the note fifteen days. Notice of this agreement had not been given to the Chicago attorneys in time to stop proceedings.

The company reached Janesville at 10:30 this morning. The scenery came in on the afternoon train and was hurried into place. The piece will be staged elaborately, settings carried by the company being valued at $2,500. There was a lively sale of seats this afternoon when it became positively known that the performance would be given. Critics agree that the piece is one of the brightest on the road this season.

A TEST OF LOVE.

Baroness Martha Defoe placed her hand on Erwin's arm and led him to one of the cozy little sitting rooms adjoining the dancing hall.

"You must be angry with me, at least greatly surprised. I hastened on at Ada's urgent request. A day after my arrival I insisted that you should follow without giving any reason that could seem adequate to you. It was so very good of you to come that I cannot refrain from expressing my gratitude. To be brief, I desire very much that you should marry Ada."

"But, my dear baroness," exclaimed the young man excitedly.

"Do you not love her?"

"With all my heart."

"And are you not sure that my little friend reciprocates your feeling?"

"I have at times felt convinced that she does. But a woman's heart, you know."

Erwin's frank and manly face became sad.

"I thought I had heard about a ring that Ada gave to you some time since?"

She touched with her finger a finely carved cameo set in a band of gold on Erwin's hand.

"You are slightly in error about this, baroness. That Walter Bramont, Ada's brother, was my dearest friend, you, of course, know. We went to school and afterward to college together. The friendly relations between Ada's brother and myself date back to those days. When the poor lad lay on his deathbed, he desired to leave to me a token of his friendship. By his sister, Ada, he sent me this ring. Since that day it has never left my hand. But as she was merely the executrix of her brother's will, I have no right to base false hopes upon his gift."

"I look upon it as an indication that Ada loves you," said Baroness Defoe musingly. "To make sure of it, I wish you to sue for her hand in marriage. Be brave and ask her to dance with you. The rest will take care of itself."

The baroness dismissed Erwin with a graceful wave of her pretty hand, then followed him slowly from afar.

Making his way through a sea of silk and satin trains, Baron Erwin von Gerz stood at last before Ada.

"May heaven bless them," whispered the baroness fervently, and for the nonce her hands were folded as if in prayer.

The ball given by the Bramonts was for days the sole topic of conversation among the upper ten of the capital.

The toilets of the women, the splendor of the arrangements were discussed by enthusiastic and envious tongues alike; but the sweetest morsel of gossip was Ada Bramont's engagement to the Marchese Lucano, which had been announced before the evening came to a close.

The Baroness Defoe informed her husband of their friend's unsuccessful suit. "He came too late," she wrote, "therein lies the secret of his defeat."

The Marchese Lucano was not painted in flattering colors. "He is a handsome man, and chivalrous enough to win any young and romantic girl's heart. But I believe that he is insincere and that mercenary motives have prompted him to ask for her hand."

The baroness was not alone in her estimate of the handsome marchese's character. Her opinion was shared by many of Ada's friends.

Ada Bramont's father was a man of sterling qualities, who had made his way in the world by dint of energy and business sagacity. He was considered a very rich man. His integrity and practical knowledge of human nature had never been questioned, and many were therefore surprised that he should give Ada into the keeping of a man who was at best considered to be a fortune hunter.

Though she could not confide to Ada the thoughts that disturbed her, Baroness Defoe, with her usual tact, touched lightly upon the events of the night soon after Ada had dismissed her guests and joined her friend in her room.

Ada's face betrayed agitation when Erwin von Gerz's name was mentioned, but she regained her self control.

"I do not deny that I like Erwin—Baron Gerz, I mean," answered the young girl. "I like him very much indeed. I might have married him if circumstances had brought us together sooner, but he lived most of the time in the country and showed no inclination for more than formal acquaintance. How could I guess that he desired to marry me? When he asked me at last, it was too late. The marchese had my word, and I saw no reason for altering my decision. You know, it is papa's pet scheme to have his daughter a marchese. Why should I upset it now?"

"I thought as much," murmured the older woman. "Erwin has come too late."

A few days later the Baroness Defoe returned to her home in the interior of the state. The separation from her friend tried the young girl sorely. She was motherless from infancy and had learned to lean upon the older woman in all the little difficulties that beset a young girl's life. To please his daughter Mr. Bramont determined to take a summer residence in one of the small watering places of the Thuringian mountains, not far from the Defoe estate. This was not at all in accordance with the marchese's plans, who had hoped to spend the summer months at one of the fashionable spas in France or on the coast of the North sea. Prudence prevented him from interposing serious objections.

The Bramonts were warmly received by the Baroness Defoe and her husband, who helped to install them in the pretty little villa that had been rented for them. It was a plain, unostentatious home, very unlike the elegant mansion they inhabited in the city.

It could be seen ere long that the marchese, who had accompanied them, was entirely unsuited to the people with whom he came in hourly contact. As the summer passed on, he absented himself frequently for several days in the week, going either to the city or hibernating at some fashionable watering place, where he was sure to meet gay company.

Mr. Bramont was not at all pleased with the conduct of his future son-in-law, and his daughter betrayed anxiety at his neglect. Baroness Defoe was at last no longer able to control her outraged feelings.

"Dissolve the bond!" she exclaimed, seizing Ada's hand. "It is still time. You will be unhappy, and then it will be too late."

Ada shook her head.

"It would be unbecomingly," said Ada. "An engagement is a promise to a man or woman should break, yet he has given me no cause for an act. If he should break, I would."

The girl paused, startled by a thought that only too readily suggested itself. "If I furnish you with proof that he is faithless, will you break with him then?" asked the baroness.

"How will you do it?"

"Trust me," whispered the baroness.

Next morning the marchese departed on one of his periodical journeys.

While the marchese was absent Mr. Bramont paid Erwin a visit. As he was not aware of the latter's suit for his daughter's hand, this visit was but the natural outcome of the kindly feelings he had always entertained for his son's schoolmate and friend. He returned from the Gerz estates highly pleased with Erwin's ability to manage his property.

Marchese Lucano remained away longer than was his wont. A letter came from him, advising his fiancée that important business engagements made it impossible to return. Mr. Bramont's face grew more thoughtful as letter upon letter arrived from Lucano asking for loans of various large sums of money. The father refrained from acquainting his daughter with the purport of these missives.

Reports from other sources were not calculated to dissipate Mr. Bramont's vexation. It became known that the marchese spent his time at fashionable watering places, indulging in frivolities unbecoming a man who was the betrothed of a sweet and innocent young woman.

When he returned at last, he was as amiable as ever. He relied upon his power over Ada, whom he had fascinated by his dashing exterior. On the day of his arrival at the Bramont home the Baroness Defoe came over for a day's visit with her friend.

The marchese asked his betrothed how she had spent her time during his absence, and Ada told him that she had been very much interested in a volume of Italian fairy tales which had accidentally fallen into her hands.

"How kind of you to devote your attention to the literature of my native land!" smiled the marchese.

"One of these stories has been especially interesting."

"Which one, my darling?"

"It is called 'Love's Test Was True.'"

"A romantic title! Tell me the story, sweet."

They gathered around the girl and the marchese.

"Once upon a time there lived a prince. He was handsome and elegant of manner, and it was an easy thing for him to captivate the heart of a young girl. She consented to become his wife and placed upon his finger a ring to seal the bond between them. But he did not love her as he should, caring only to possess her wealth. Her innocence and simplicity wearied him even before they were united in marriage. He left her for days at a time to engage in the gay pastimes of the world. In her distress the young girl sought the counsel of a good fairy when next her lover was gone. Together they thought of a plan by which she would know whether her lover was true to her or not.

"Under every ring constantly worn on the same finger a stripe of white is formed. No matter how brown and weather stained the hand may become, this stripe remains white and pure. Men who are faithless to their vows remove their rings in the pursuit of unwholesome pleasures."

"This," the fairy said to the young girl, "is an unfailing sign. When next your lover returns to you, remove from his hand the ring you have given him. If the skin beneath is pure and white, he has been true to you. If the stripe is missing."

As Ada spoke these words she playfully drew from the marchese's hand the ring that bound him to her.

Lucano tried to snatch his hand from her grasp, but Ada was quicker than he. The telltale stripe was missing.

Pale as death, the girl arose, drawing from her own hand the ring he had given her and throwing it at his feet.

That night the marchese went away for the last time, never to return. It developed subsequently that he had borrowed money wherever he could on his prospect of marrying an heiress.

A year later we find Ada again, spending the summer at the home of her friend, the Baroness Defoe. The baron had been away for several days on a mission, the purpose of which only his wife knew.

When he returned, he was accompanied by Erwin von Gerz, who had just come back from a long sea voyage. When he shook hands with Ada Bramont, she saw on his finger her dead brother's ring.

Tears glistened in her eyes. "How good of you, Erwin, to wear this silent token of my brother's love!" she said feelingly.

"It has never left my hand from the day you put it there."

He slipped it from his finger, and there, vividly contrasting with the sun-browned hand, Ada beheld a circle of white where the ring had been.

A cry of delight broke from her lips. "I love you," whispered Erwin, "and I have been loyal to my love."

Ada Bramont knew he had. Love's test had been true.—From the German.

DOCTORS HAD GIVEN HER UP.

A Convincing Letter From One of Mrs. Pinkham's Admirers.

No woman can look fresh and fair who is suffering from displacement of the womb. It is ridiculous to suppose that such a difficulty can be cured by an artificial support like a pessary.

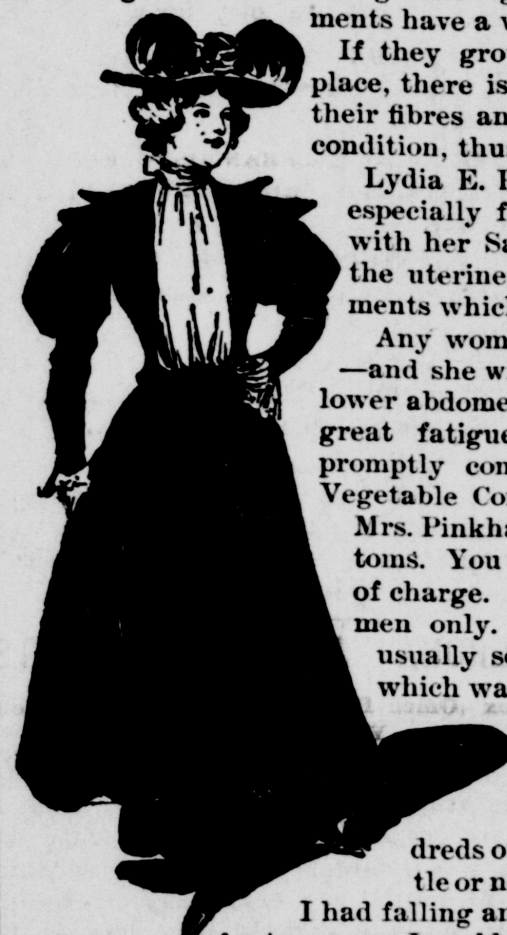

Artificial supports make matters worse, for they take away all the chance of the ligaments recovering their vigor and tone. Use strengthens; the ligaments have a work to do.

If they grow flabby and refuse to hold the womb in place, there is but one remedy, and that is to strengthen their fibres and draw the cords back into their normal condition, thus righting the position of the womb.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is designed especially for this purpose, and, taken in connection with her Sanative Wash, applied locally, will tone up the uterine system, strengthening the cords or ligaments which hold up the womb.

Any woman who suspects that she has this trouble—and she will know it by a dragging weight in the lower abdomen, irritability of the bladder and rectum, great fatigue in walking, and leucorrhœa—should promptly commence the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If the case is stubborn, write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., stating freely all symptoms. You will receive a prompt letter of advice free of charge. All letters are read and answered by women only. The following letter relates to an unusually severe case of displacement of the womb, which was cured by the Pinkham remedies. Surely it is convincing:

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier cured me when the doctors had given me up. I had spent hundreds of dollars searching for a cure, but found little or no relief until I began the Pinkham remedies. I had falling and displacement of the womb so badly that for two years I could not walk across the floor. I also had profuse menstruation, kidney, liver, and stomach trouble. The doctors said my case was hopeless. I had taken only four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and one of the Blood Purifier when I felt like a new person. I am now cured, much to the surprise of my friends, for they all gave me up to die. Now many of my lady friends are using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound through my recommendation, and are regaining health. It has also cured my little son of kidney trouble. I would advise every suffering woman in the land to write to Mrs. Pinkham for aid."—MRS. EMMA PANGBORN, Alanson, Mich.

To Make Them Fit New Floors—Cleaning Them.

In refitting carpets to different floors from those for which they were originally intended it sometimes happens that they prove to be of the wrong size. If they are too large, they need, of course, only be cut down to fit. If they are too small, the question arises of how they shall be extended to the proper dimensions. Reference is made to nailed carpets, as rugs do not require to be altered. If the carpet has no border, a border may be purchased and added, as the edge need not necessarily match the middle exactly. The same caution of colors is requisite, but the pattern may be different without producing a bad effect. When the old carpet is already provided with border and is yet not large enough, it may be filled out with perfectly plain carpet of some harmonizing color and of the same variety—plain ingrain to fill out an ingrain carpet, plain brussels for a brussels carpet, etc. This plain carpeting may also be used in place of a border with very good results.

Perhaps everybody does not know that old, moist tea leaves are useful for cleaning carpets. They should be thickly scattered over the carpet, which should then be swept with a corn broom. The tea leaves collect the dust and dirt, but they should be only damp, not wet, and should not be trodden into the carpet.

Growing plants add much to the attractiveness of a room, but they should be really growing, not languishing, as a pining plant is the epitome of dreariness.

The picture given shows a silk and velvet costume. The skirt is of mauve silk and is trimmed with ruffles arranged in V's and headed by bands of violet velvet. The blouse bodice, which has a short basque, is of violet velvet and closes at the left side with gold buttons. The revers are of application de venise on light mauve silk, and the chemise is likewise of light mauve silk. The close sleeves of mauve silk to match the skirt are trimmed with bands of violet velvet arranged in V's and have small velvet puffs. The belt is of light mauve silk embroidered to match the revers, the collar being of violet velvet.

BLOUSES.

They Should Be Well Cut—How Basques Are Made.

Nearly all bodies are bouffant—that is, they do not cling to the figure, but in order to avoid the effect of untidiness they must be well cut and carefully made, so that the fullness will come in the right place and there will be no bagginess such as comes from bad fitting. Blouses should always be made over a close lining, and even when there is a basque it is better to let the lining extend a couple of inches below the waist. In putting on the dress skirt the waistband may be slipped up between the lining and the basque, thus holding the bodice firmly in place, so that it cannot pull away from the skirt.

Most of the new blouses have little or no fullness at the top—the neck and the shoulders—but are gathered at the waist.

and allowed to hang over the belt or not, as is desired. They are ornamented in various ways. Sometimes they are tucked horizontally or bands of trimming are arranged in the same manner. Sometimes there is a yoke, from which bands of trimming extend downward vertically. Blouses are made with or without a seam under the arm. The newest models have no seam there, the outside being cut a little longer than the lining, so as to hang over the belt. If the bodice is for a very slender figure, the bagginess may be rather accentuated; if for a robust figure, the extra length should be slight, the little gathers at the waist showing.

A picture is given of a blouse of navy blue serge. It has no fullness at the top, but is gathered at the waist, hanging over the belt. It is trimmed, front and back, with narrow black velvet ribbon arranged in a lattice pattern. There are revers of white moire, trimmed with bands of velvet, and the belt is of white moire, with a gold buckle. The close sleeves are slightly full at the top and are decorated with velvet bands, the basque also being trimmed with velvet.

This deficiency can, with some aid of the rye and corn crop, be made up, but who could supply to the sick and debilitated deficiency of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Beautiful Garments

In that new sample line which will be placed on sale today---beautiful in style, make up and in all the minor points that go to make up Cloaks that are right---a fortunate purchase from the representative of a New York manufacturer, made at Chicago, Wednesday, secures us about three hundred of the season's choicest productions at a liberal cash discount. It is a rare thing that we get sample garments so early in the season, but the mild weather has not made a boom in Cloak business and salesmen find it useless to make a trip, so instead of making the territory usually made, the house instructed this salesman to sell his samples and return to New York to wait for a drop in the thermometer. We own the entire line, fresh from the work-rooms, and as no two are alike, the advantage of an early selection is apparent.

In addition to a most excellent showing of Jackets, there is a large line of Cloth and Plush Capes, which are finding a lively sale in all cloak departments. In the line are also the colors in Jackets which are scarce in the market---tans, browns, blues and greens.

In black coats there are some especially fine Kersays, lined throughout, both in plain garments and braided. In the main, garments in this line are of a higher class than is usually seen in Janesville, but the prices at which we own them will make them only the prices of less pretentious coats. Come in and take a look at them.

The customer finds exactly what we say we have when he calls for it. What more really good Stoves are there than what we sell? We would like to know; if you can tell us you'll favor us greatly.

in a

Favorite

Base Burner....

Are not only very large, but they are so constructed and arranged that the heat is kept to the outer surfaces of the stove, and is thrown in the room easily and quickly.

There are two cold air flues at the back of the stove, which are so placed in between the hot air flues that they draw the cold air from the floor and discharge it from the top very hot. The heat from these flues can be carried to an upper room if desired. You won't go wrong if you buy a Favorite Base Burner.
